Details:
According to the me, the Jewish law - Leviticus 22:13 - is rooted in the reason that a woman, whose daughter has become also a mother of conceived children, is expected to conceive more children, i.e. continue conceiving children and take care of them.
It is perhaps very disrespectful for a daughter who is already a mother of conceived children to still need the help of her own mother. That would indicate that she is not wise enough and has learnt nothing from her own mother.
Leviticus 22:13 is a law which is kept only by the wisest. I.e., after a woman conceives for the first time, she is not allowed to return to her father's house. If that was the case and before she has conceived her first child, perhaps her own mother was not very wise at that time.
